It is proposed to have one of these runs every week, and a little later to have some handicap races.

The Wild Pigeon.

For the first time in many years the shooting of wild turtle doves in the states is allowed, and this bird, once thought to be almost extinct, is now so plentiful that big bags are being secured by hunters.

Kistler's Valley years ago was famous as the roosting and breeding place of thousands of wild pigeons, and there are still some of the older people left who can tell stirring tales of the countless thousands of wild pigeons that obscured the sun in their flight, and when they alighted in a forest crash upon crash was heard as branches broke under their weight.

The slaughter was proportionate to the density of the roost. There was no sport connected with it; it was simply slaughter. One could knock them over by the hundreds by merely using a pole. Many killed for the sake of wanton killing, and thousands of the birds were left to rot on the ground.

Wild pigeons formed the staple meat food for hundreds of families throughout the winter. They were killed and salted down. One could buy two dozen pigeons for 3 cents or less. In spite of the immense slaughter, it had no appreciable effect in reducing their number. Each spring the people would hear a peculiar booming, whirring sound, and on looking up they would see cloud after cloud of pigeons sweeping up from the southern horizon and seeking their old roosting place. For miles around the news would spread, nearly as fast as the flocks, that "the pigeons are coming," and preparations for the slaughter would be made.

One year the people looked in vain for their annual food supply of pigeons. They never came again, and, although over half a century has come and gone, this tragic mystery in the feathered kingdom has never been solved. To this day no one knows what swept away in one season millions of wild pigeons.

In this connection a curious prophecy is remembered. Years ago an old man said: "When once again the wild turtle dove is shot in Lehigh county then

THE WORK OF THE ARCHIVES BUREAU

Secretary Lydecker of the Board of Archives yesterday made a report to the board outlining what has been done so far in cataloguing and arranging the vast mass of documents now stored in trunks. Professor W. D. Alexander and Mr. A. F. Judd were present.

The work of sorting out the many records and papers is going merrily along and by the time the new building is finished in February Archivist Lydecker will have everything ready to store away convenient for reference. One of the most interesting collections is that of the treaties entered into under the kingdom. These are not easy of disposal, owing to the huge seals in their silver caskets. Among other valuable papers long lost and just recovered is the original draft of the constitution granted by Kamehameha III. A paper which has just saved the Territory $7000 by authorizing certain land leases has also been found.

CENTRAL UNION SERVICES.

At 11 a. m. tomorrow at Central Union Church Reverend Daniel Shephardson, D. D., will preach on "The Supremacy of Christ." At 7:30 p. m. Dr. Shephardson will preach on "The Truest Liberty." The subject of the Christian Endeavor meeting, led by Miss Katherine Hannestad, will be "The Great Surrender."

THE FUNDAMENTAL LAW OF HAWAII CONTAINS:

1. The first Constitution of Kamehameha III, 1840, including the previously issued Bill of Rights.
2. The first laws of Hawaii, enacted under Kamehameha III, (1833-1842), published together in 1842.
3. The law creating and principles guiding the Land Commission.
4. The second Constitution of Kamehameha III, 1852.
5. The Constitution of Kamehameha V, 1864.
6. The Constitution of Kalakaua, 1887.
7. The Proclamation and orders incident to the establishment of the Privileges Government, 1893.
8. The Constitution of the Republic of Hawaii, 1894.

10. The Resolution of the Hawaiian Senate ratifying the annexation treaty, 1897.
11. The Joint Resolution of Congress annexing Hawaii, 1898.
12. The documents and procedure incident to the transfer of the sovereignty and possession of Hawaii to the United States, 1898; and the executive orders of President McKinley, relating to the government of Hawaii, issued during the transition period between the date of annexation and the passage of the Organic Act, 1898-1900.

look for the return of the wild pigeons, but not before."

It is a strange commentary upon the above that within the past year more than one hunter has reported seeing small flocks of wild pigeons in the Kistler's Valley district, but so swift on the wing and so shy were they that no shots could be made effective. That the turtle dove is the avian courier of the wild pigeon is believed by many an old hunter.—Kistler's Valley correspondence of Philadelphia Record.

The U. S. S. Iroquois arrived at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon from Midway Island.

The day the Iroquois sailed for Midway (Friday, September 15) they had a second storm at Midway, similar to the one on July 13, flooding the island and damaging what little vegetation there is on Sand Island. Thousands of eggs and newly fledged birds were destroyed. The Iwalani struck this storm and was badly shaken up. The Iroquois had fine weather the whole trip, with trades very much to the eastward, and phenomenally high barometer. On the outward trip she visited Bird, Nuku, Gardner and Laysan islands, arriving at the latter on September 19, where the Iwalani and schooner Woodbury were found loading guano. The Iwalani sailed that evening for Honolulu, and the Woodbury was due to sail Saturday, September 23.

At Laysan Island, Mr. Gerrit Wilder, representing the agricultural and entomological interests of the Territory, planted coconuts and iron wood trees, and collected insects. Captain Schlemmer sent one dozen wild canaries from Laysan to Midway to be turned loose on Eastern Island.

The Iroquois arrived at Midway Thursday morning, September 21, and moored to the buoy in Willis harbor at 7 a. m., landing mails and stores as soon as practicable. On September 22 the light was installed in the new lighthouse which Lieut. Slattery has had built on Observation Spot, and that evening was lighted for the first time. It is 78 feet above sea line, and is visible all round the horizon for a distance of 15 miles. The lighthouse is of a type designed by Lieut. Slattery for the special conditions of these islands. During the stay of the Iroquois at Midway, Lieut. Harlee of the Marine Corps made a plane table survey of Sand Island for the use of the Navy Department, and Mr. Wilder did his work in connection with plant and insect life on the islands. The crew of the Iroquois rebuilt and strengthened the range marks for entering Welles harbor and laid a perpendicular-stripe mid-channel buoy, thus completing for the present the buoying and lighting of Midway. The twelve canary birds from Laysan were turned loose on Eastern Island.

The Iroquois left Midway at 8 p. m. Saturday, Sept. 23, and spent Sunday inspecting and investigating Pearl and Hermes Reef. On an island in the lagoon near the north end of the reef was discovered the wreck of the Japanese schooner Wiji Maru. This is the schooner which was particularly active in bird killing in 1903-4. Captain Rodman warned it away from Midway and later from Laysan Island in June, 1903. In September, 1904, part of the crew of the schooner was found on Laysan Island by the Iroquois, together with part of the crew of the Tanzi Maru, and later the revenue cutter Thetis brought the 77 Japanese to Honolulu. Captain Weisbarth made a try to get the bird skins left at Laysan, but the Tanzi Maru evidently returned from Japan a few days previously and took the skins. The Wiji Maru was driven away from Laysan and damaged by a storm in July, 1904, and later appeared at Midway in need of repairs. She evidently went to Pearl and Hermes and was wrecked, and it is probable that the Tanzi Maru picked up the crew when it came for the skins at Laysan. It is now very evident that the bird killing has ceased. The hunting and fishing in Pearl and Hermes lagoon is simply prodigious. The Iroquois passed the Doric on Thursday morning off Bird Island.

The Iroquois had on board as passengers Lieut. Harlee, U. S. M. C.; Mr. Gerrit P. Wilder, Mr. T. M. Rae and three men of the lighthouse contractor's party, two marines invalided from Midway garrison, and a cable company laborer.

He was removed to the Queen's Hospital where he died at 1:30 p. m. Parker had gone aloft to furl the fore lower topgallant sail. He was about to descend when he lost his hold and fell, a distance of 70 feet, striking the forehouse. The Sofala was 55 days on the way, and brought 3480 tons of coal for Irwin & Co.
